

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, which means my tax money is subsidising Sinclairs right wing political bias. This action will open a pandoras box of similar actions by all sides if the FCC does not act. Federal law prohibits the airing of "electioneering communication" by corporations and this is so obviously what Sinclair is doing that any unbiased entity could clearly see this.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them.
